DISCARTING THE ARTICLES OF CONFEDERATION
DESK

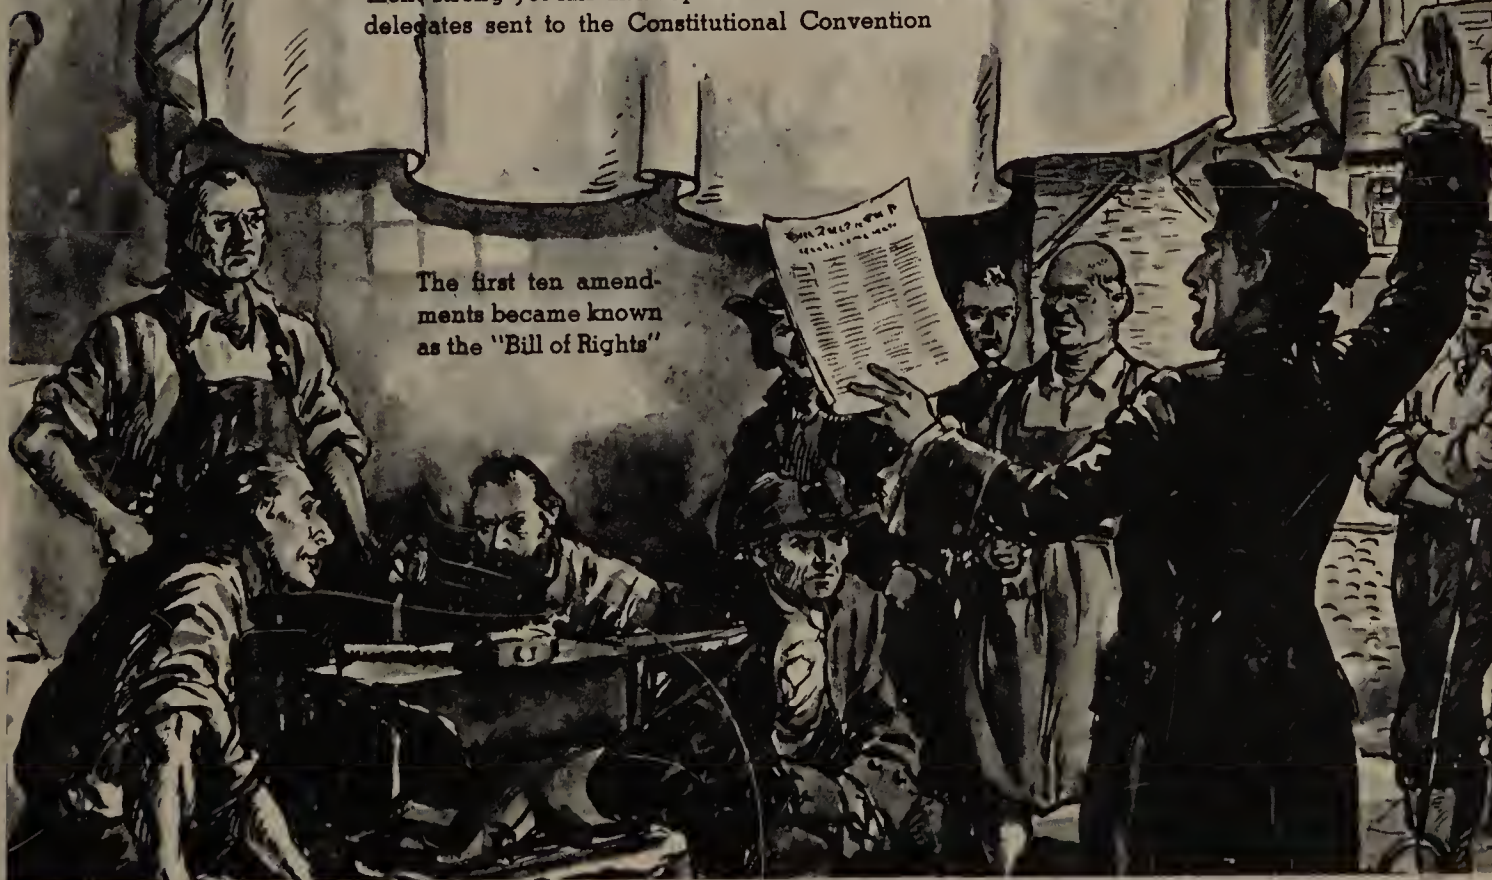

Discarding the Articles of Confederation they began to write a new constitution. After months of hard work it was completed September 17, 1787

WRITING THE CONSTITUTION

The stirring and gallant Revolutionary days were over. Americans now faced the problems of governing and preserving their new nation. Leaders with national vision realized that perilous days lay ahead for the states. Bound together loosely by the Articles of Confederation, they might not withstand external or internal foes. Washington and Hamilton advocated nationalization and strong central government, ideas opposed by many Americans who feared infringement of individual rights. To create a government strong yet fair and representative—that was the task of the delegates sent to the Constitutional Convention

The first ten amendments became known as the "Bill of Rights"

With Washington as their leader, these men versed in the ways of government convened at Carpenter Hall in Philadelphia, May, 1787

The constitution was signed by the writers before ratification. As Franklin signed, he remarked, "Thus I consent to this constitution because I expect no better and because I am not sure it is not the best"
